

The Two Declarations of Independence: A Comparative Analysis and Living Trust with Accountability Provisions

Prepared by: Manus AI Date: July 1, 2026

PART ONE: COMPARATIVE ANALYSIS OF BOTH DECLARATIONS

I. The Original Declaration of Independence (1776)

Historical Context and Purpose

Adopted by the Second Continental Congress on July 4, 1776, the original Declaration of Independence stands as the foundational document of the American Republic. Drafted primarily by Thomas Jefferson, with revisions by Benjamin Franklin and John Adams, it was a formal announcement to the world that the thirteen American colonies were severing all political ties with the British Crown. Its purpose was threefold: to articulate a universal philosophy of natural rights, to enumerate specific grievances against King George III, and to proclaim the sovereign independence of the new nation.

Philosophy of Governance

The 1776 Declaration rests upon Enlightenment philosophy, particularly the social contract theory of John Locke. Its central premise is stated with remarkable clarity:

“We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.”

This passage establishes three foundational principles. First, human equality is a self-evident truth rooted in the divine order of creation. Second, rights are unalienable — they cannot be surrendered, sold, or transferred — because they originate not from government but from the Creator. Third, and most critically for the purpose of this analysis, government exists only by the consent of the governed and only to secure those rights. When a government fails in this purpose, the people possess both the right and the duty to alter or abolish it.

The document does not advocate for perpetual revolution. It acknowledges that “Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes,” and that human beings are “more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable.” However, it insists that when a “long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism,” the people must act.

Grievances Against the Crown: Abuses of Governmental Power

The Declaration lists 27 specific grievances against King George III, each representing a direct violation of the principles of just governance. These grievances can be organized into four categories of governmental abuse:

Category of Abuse	Specific Grievances
Legislative Usurpation	Refusing assent to necessary laws; dissolving representative houses; suspending legislatures; preventing elections
Judicial Corruption	Obstructing the administration of justice; making judges dependent on the Crown’s will; depriving citizens of trial by jury
Military Tyranny	Maintaining standing armies in peacetime without legislative consent; rendering military superior to civil power; quartering troops among civilians
Economic Oppression	Imposing taxes without consent; cutting off trade; plundering seas and coasts

The document’s grievances are directed at a single, identifiable sovereign — the King of Great Britain — whose actions were public, documented, and subject to legal challenge. The abuses described are acts of commission: the King actively did these things to the colonists.

The Closing Pledge

The Declaration concludes with the signatories mutually pledging “to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor” in support of the Declaration. This pledge is a solemn covenant among the 56 signatories, binding them collectively to the cause of independence. It is the foundational oath of the American Republic.

II. The 2nd Declaration of Independence (2021)

Historical Context and Provenance

The document titled A 2nd Declaration of Independence, By the 50 United States of America is dated February 9, 2021, and was transcribed by Mark Baughman. It claims to have been signed by President Donald Trump on July 4, 2020, and is addressed “To the New Republic of the United States.” It is directed at the “SHAREHOLDERS OF US CORP. including THE CITY OF LONDON, THE BRITISH CROWN, AND THE VATICAN, and their OPERATIVES in the media government and society.”

It is important to note that this document is not an official government document and has not been authenticated by any governmental authority. It circulates primarily within patriot and sovereign citizen communities and draws heavily from theories about the 1871 District of Columbia Organic Act and the “corporate United States” narrative. Its analysis is presented here as a document expressing a particular political and philosophical worldview, not as a statement of verified historical fact.

Philosophy of Governance

The 2nd Declaration shares the 1776 Declaration’s reverence for the Constitutional Republic and its distrust of concentrated power. It explicitly rejects Democracy, arguing that the Founders established a Constitutional Republic precisely to prevent majority tyranny:

“The founders had formed a Constitutional Republic instead of a Democracy specifically to prevent citizens in the majority from oppressing those in the minority. By doing what is best for their District (or State), rather than enforce the majority will, representatives serve all citizens equally.”

However, the 2nd Declaration departs radically from the 1776 framework in its diagnosis of the problem. Where the 1776 Declaration identified a foreign monarch as the tyrant, the 2nd Declaration asserts that the tyranny is internal, covert, and corporate. It claims that the United States government was secretly converted into a foreign-owned corporation (“US CORP”) following the Civil War, and that all subsequent governmental actions — including constitutional amendments, the Federal Reserve Act, and the Social Security system — were instruments of this corporate takeover.

The document’s core philosophical claim is that the American people are not citizens of a republic but rather “trustees of corporate fictions,” and that their labor, property, and very identities have been pledged as collateral to foreign creditors. It invokes the concept of Admiralty Law, arguing that the gold fringe on the American flag signals that courts operate under maritime jurisdiction rather than common law.

Grievances Against “US CORP”: Abuses of Governmental Power

The 2nd Declaration enumerates 33 points of grievance, all directed at the anonymous shareholders of “US CORP” and their embedded “OPERATIVES.” These grievances span over 150 years of American history and can be organized as follows:

Category of Abuse	Specific Claims
Financial Usurpation	1871 corporate takeover; 1913 Federal Reserve Act; 1920 surrender of Treasury; 1933 bankruptcy and gold confiscation
Constitutional Subversion	Replacement of original Constitution with a “corporate constitution”; illegitimate ratification of 16th and 17th Amendments
Institutional Infiltration	Embedding “OPERATIVES” in DOJ, NSA, FBI, CIA, CDC, FDA, and media networks
Cultural Warfare	Controlling education, media, and entertainment to promote globalism and anti-Americanism
Population Control	Fluoridation, vaccinations, prescription drugs, and orchestrated mass shootings to disarm patriots
Electoral Corruption	Funding campaigns and fixing elections to install compliant politicians

Unlike the 1776 Declaration’s grievances, which were directed at a visible and named sovereign, the 2nd Declaration’s grievances are directed at anonymous shareholders and unnamed “OPERATIVES.” The abuses described are largely acts of omission and concealment — the enemy operates in the shadows and through deception rather than overt force.

The Closing Pledge

The 2nd Declaration mirrors the 1776 Declaration’s closing pledge almost verbatim:

“So, in support of this Declaration, with its firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor.”

This deliberate echo of the original Declaration is significant. It frames the 2nd Declaration as a continuation of the founding covenant, asserting that the same moral and legal authority that justified independence in 1776 now justifies a second declaration of independence from the corporate usurpers. The document notes that “(The 56 signatories or THE TASK FORCE are to be affixed at the time of presentation to Congress, the President, the 50 State Legislatures, and the Governors of the respective States.)”

III. Comparative Analysis: Key Differences and Similarities

Dimension	1776 Declaration	2nd Declaration (2021)
Date	July 4, 1776	Attributed to July 4, 2020; transcribed Feb. 9, 2021
Authors	Thomas Jefferson, Continental Congress	Attributed to “WE CITIZENS OF AMERICA”; transcribed by Mark Baughman
Target of Independence	The British Crown / King George III	“US CORP” / City of London / British Crown / Vatican
Philosophical Basis	Enlightenment natural rights theory (Locke)	Sovereign citizen / patriot movement ideology
Form of Government Advocated	Representative republic with separation of powers	Constitutional Republic (rejecting Democracy)
Nature of Tyranny	Overt, identifiable, royal	Covert, corporate, conspiratorial
Grievances	27 specific, documented acts by the King	33 claims spanning 150 years of alleged corporate infiltration
Consent of the Governed	Central principle; government derives power from the people	Violated by secret corporate substitution of government
Oath of Office	Implied through representative accountability	Explicitly violated by “OPERATIVES” serving US CORP
Closing Pledge	“Lives, Fortunes, and sacred Honor”	Identical language, echoing 1776
Legal Status	Official founding document of the United States	Unofficial; not authenticated by any government authority

Perspectives on Oaths of Office and Governmental Abuse

Both documents share the conviction that public officials who serve interests other than those of the people have violated their fundamental duty and, by extension, their oath of office. The 1776 Declaration frames this as a king who has “abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.” The 2nd Declaration frames it as elected officials who “neither represent nor work for the American People” but are instead “managers of US CORP” obligated to serve foreign shareholders.

The 2nd Declaration goes further, explicitly labeling these officials as traitors: “the OPERATIVES perform with a hive mind because they are guilty of treason, a crime punishable by death.” This framing transforms the political grievance into a criminal charge, asserting that the breach of oath is not merely a political failure but a capital offense under the law of treason.

PART TWO: REVOCABLE LIVING TRUST AND ADVANCE DIRECTIVE (LIVING WILL)

WITH ACCOUNTABILITY PROVISIONS UNDER EXECUTIVE WAR POWERS

REVOCABLE LIVING TRUST AND ADVANCE DIRECTIVE

(LIVING WILL)

WITH PROVISIONS FOR ACCOUNTABILITY UNDER EXECUTIVE WAR POWERS

AND OATH OF OFFICE

DECLARATION OF TRUST

This Revocable Living Trust and Advance Directive (hereinafter "Trust" or "Instrument") is made and entered into this _____ day of _____, 20, by and between:

GRANTOR/PRINCIPAL: _____ (hereinafter "Grantor"), a living man/woman, a sovereign national of the Constitutional Republic of the united states of America, and TRUSTEE: _____ (hereinafter "Trustee"), appointed to administer this Trust in accordance with the terms set forth herein.

ARTICLE I: DECLARATION OF PURPOSE AND SOVEREIGN INTENT

Section 1.01 — Primary Purpose. The primary purpose of this Instrument is threefold: (a) to manage, protect, and distribute the Grantor's assets and estate during their lifetime and upon their death; (b) to provide clear and binding instructions regarding the Grantor's healthcare decisions in the event of incapacity; and © to formally declare and protect the Grantor's unalienable rights as a sovereign individual under the original Constitution for the united states of America, as established by the founding generation and affirmed by the Declaration of Independence of July 4, 1776.

Section 1.02 — Declaration of Sovereignty. The Grantor hereby declares themselves a living man/woman, a flesh-and-blood sovereign national, and not a corporate fiction, surety, trustee, or debtor for any obligation of any de facto corporate entity, including but not limited to any entity operating as "UNITED STATES," "US CORP," or any franchise thereof. This declaration is made in accordance with the principles articulated in the Declaration of Independence (1776), which affirms that all men are created equal and endowed with unalienable rights that no government may revoke without due process.

Section 1.03 — Alignment with the Founding Pledge. In the spirit of the founding covenant, wherein the signatories of the Declaration of Independence pledged "to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor," the Grantor hereby pledges through this Instrument to hold accountable any person or entity — including public officials — who violates their oath of office, engages in treasonous acts, or abuses Executive War Powers in a manner destructive to the rights of the Grantor and the American people.

ARTICLE II: TRUST ESTATE AND ASSETS

Section 2.01 — Transfer of Assets. The Grantor hereby transfers, assigns, and conveys to the Trustee all property described in Schedule A (attached hereto and incorporated by reference), including but not limited to real property, personal property, financial accounts, intellectual property, and any other assets the Grantor may designate in writing from time to time.

Section 2.02 — Exclusion of Corporate Claims. No asset held within this Trust shall be subject to seizure, confiscation, or administrative lien by any entity claiming authority under admiralty law, maritime jurisdiction, or any corporate statute that has not been enacted in conformity with the original Constitution for the united states of America and ratified by the duly constituted legislatures of the several States.

Section 2.03 — Gold and Silver Clause. To the extent permitted by law, the Grantor directs that any monetary obligations of this Trust be discharged in lawful money of the United States, including gold and silver coin, as contemplated by Article I, Section 10 of the Constitution, and not solely in Federal Reserve Notes, which the Grantor acknowledges are debt instruments rather than lawful money.

ARTICLE III: ADVANCE DIRECTIVE AND LIVING WILL

Section 3.01 — Appointment of Healthcare Proxy. The Grantor hereby appoints _____ as their Healthcare Proxy (hereinafter “Proxy”), with full authority to make healthcare decisions on the Grantor’s behalf in the event the Grantor is incapacitated and unable to communicate their wishes.

Section 3.02 — Guiding Principles for Healthcare Decisions. All healthcare decisions made by the Proxy shall be guided by the following principles:

(a) Bodily Sovereignty. The Grantor’s body is their sovereign domain. No medical procedure, pharmaceutical intervention, implantable device, or biological agent shall be administered to the Grantor without their prior, express, voluntary, and fully informed consent, free from coercion, duress, or financial incentive to the healthcare provider.

(b) Refusal of Mandated Interventions. The Grantor expressly refuses any medical intervention mandated by executive order, emergency declaration, or the exercise of Executive War Powers that bypasses constitutional due process, violates the Grantor’s bodily integrity, or has not been individually consented to by the Grantor or their Proxy.

© Natural and Palliative Care. In the event of a terminal condition, the Grantor directs that comfort and palliative care be prioritized. Extraordinary life-sustaining measures shall be employed only if there is a reasonable medical expectation of meaningful recovery.

Section 3.03 — Mental Health Provisions. The Grantor expressly refuses any involuntary psychiatric evaluation, commitment, or treatment ordered by any governmental authority, administrative agency, or court operating under color of law rather than constitutional authority. Any such order shall be presumed to be an act of political persecution until proven otherwise in a court of competent jurisdiction operating under Article III of the Constitution.

ARTICLE IV: ACCOUNTABILITY FOR OATHS OF OFFICE AND TREASONOUS ACTS

Section 4.01 — The Oath of Office as a Sacred Covenant. The Grantor recognizes that every federal and state official takes an oath to “support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic.” This oath is not a mere formality but a sacred covenant between the official and the American people. Any official who violates this oath by serving the interests of foreign powers, corporate entities, or private financial interests over the interests of the American people has committed a fundamental breach of trust and, in the most severe cases, the crime of treason as defined in Article III, Section 3 of the Constitution.

Section 4.02 — Definition of Treasonous Acts for Purposes of This Trust. For the purposes of this Instrument, “treasonous acts” shall include, but not be limited to:

(a) Any act by a public official that knowingly and willfully subverts the constitutional rights of the Grantor or the American people for the benefit of a foreign power or private entity;

(b) The unlawful exercise of Executive War Powers to suspend constitutional rights, confiscate private property, or impose martial law without a genuine and imminent national security threat recognized by Congress;

© The use of governmental authority to silence, persecute, or harm individuals who exercise their First Amendment rights to expose governmental corruption or abuse;

(d) The deliberate manipulation of elections, judicial proceedings, or legislative processes to perpetuate the power of any individual, party, or corporate entity at the expense of the sovereign will of the people.

Section 4.03 — Trustee’s Duty to Resist Unlawful Orders. In the event that any public official, law enforcement officer, military officer, or agent of any governmental or corporate entity, acting under the color of law or under Executive War Powers, issues an order, warrant, or directive that:

(a) Purports to confiscate or encumber any asset of this Trust without a valid, constitutionally compliant court order issued by an Article III court;

(b) Purports to detain, arrest, or compel the Grantor without probable cause and due process as guaranteed by the Fourth and Fifth Amendments;

© Purports to compel the Grantor to waive any constitutional right as a condition of receiving a government benefit or avoiding a penalty;

then the Trustee is directed to refuse compliance with such order and to immediately engage legal counsel to challenge the order in a court of competent jurisdiction.

Section 4.04 — Accountability Fund. The Trustee shall maintain a designated sub-account within the Trust Estate, to be known as the Accountability Fund, funded with no less than

___% of the total Trust assets. The Accountability Fund shall be used exclusively for the following purposes:

- (a) Retaining legal counsel to defend the Grantor’s constitutional rights against governmental overreach;
- (b) Filing civil rights actions, habeas corpus petitions, and other legal remedies against public officials who have violated their oath of office;
- © Supporting organizations dedicated to constitutional accountability, the rule of law, and the protection of individual sovereignty;
- (d) Funding any legal action necessary to hold accountable any public official who has engaged in treasonous acts as defined in Section 4.02.

Section 4.05 — Notification of Congress and State Legislatures. In the event the Trustee determines that a public official has engaged in treasonous acts as defined herein, the Trustee is directed to prepare and transmit a formal written notice to the relevant members of Congress, the applicable State Legislature, and the Governor of the relevant State, documenting the alleged treasonous acts and demanding accountability. This provision is inspired by the 2nd Declaration of Independence’s directive that its signatories present their declaration to “Congress, the President, the 50 State Legislatures, and the Governors of the respective States.”

ARTICLE V: EXECUTIVE WAR POWERS — SPECIFIC PROVISIONS

Section 5.01 — Recognition of Legitimate War Powers. The Grantor acknowledges that the President of the United States, as Commander-in-Chief under Article II of the Constitution, possesses certain war powers in times of genuine national emergency. However, the Grantor asserts that these powers are not unlimited and are constrained by the Constitution, the War Powers Resolution of 1973 (50 U.S.C. §§ 1541–1548), and the Bill of Rights.

Section 5.02 — Prohibition on Unlawful War Powers Applications. The Grantor expressly declares that Executive War Powers may not lawfully be used to:

- (a) Suspend the writ of habeas corpus except as provided in Article I, Section 9 of the Constitution (i.e., only when public safety requires it in cases of rebellion or invasion);
- (b) Confiscate private property without just compensation as required by the Fifth Amendment;
- © Impose martial law in areas where civilian courts are open and functioning;
- (d) Conduct warrantless surveillance, search, or seizure of the Grantor’s person, papers, or effects;
- (e) Compel military service, labor, or any form of involuntary servitude prohibited by the Thirteenth Amendment.

Section 5.03 — Trustee’s Response to Unlawful War Powers. In the event that Executive War Powers are invoked in a manner that the Trustee, in consultation with legal counsel, determines to be unconstitutional and directly threatening to the Grantor or the Trust Estate, the Trustee shall:

- (a) Document all relevant facts, orders, and communications;
 - (b) File for emergency injunctive relief in the nearest Article III federal court;
 - © Notify the Grantor’s representatives in Congress and demand legislative action to check the executive overreach;
 - (d) Utilize the Accountability Fund as provided in Section 4.04.

ARTICLE VI: ADMINISTRATION OF THE TRUST

Section 6.01 — Grantor’s Reserved Rights. During the Grantor’s lifetime and while the Grantor retains legal capacity, the Grantor reserves the following rights: (a) to revoke or amend this Trust at any time by written instrument delivered to the Trustee; (b) to withdraw any asset from the Trust; © to direct the Trustee in the management and investment of Trust assets; and (d) to receive all income generated by the Trust Estate.

Section 6.02 — Trustee’s Powers. The Trustee shall have the following powers, in addition to those granted by applicable state law: (a) to hold, manage, invest, and reinvest Trust assets; (b) to buy, sell, lease, and encumber real and personal property; © to retain legal counsel and pay reasonable legal fees from the Trust Estate; (d) to make distributions to the Grantor and, upon the Grantor’s death, to the beneficiaries named in Schedule B; and (e) to take all actions necessary to protect the Trust Estate from unlawful governmental seizure or encumbrance.

Section 6.03 — Trustee’s Duty of Loyalty. The Trustee owes a fiduciary duty of loyalty exclusively to the Grantor and the beneficiaries of this Trust. The Trustee shall not allow any governmental pressure, administrative directive, or corporate claim to override this duty of loyalty, except as required by a valid order of a court of competent jurisdiction operating under the original Constitution.

ARTICLE VII: DISTRIBUTION UPON DEATH

Section 7.01 — Payment of Debts and Expenses. Upon the Grantor’s death, the Trustee shall pay all lawful debts, funeral expenses, and costs of Trust administration from the Trust Estate.

Section 7.02 — Distribution to Beneficiaries. After payment of debts and expenses, the Trustee shall distribute the remaining Trust Estate to the beneficiaries named in Schedule B in the proportions set forth therein.

Section 7.03 — Continuation of Accountability Provisions. The Accountability Fund and the provisions of Article IV shall survive the Grantor’s death and shall continue to be administered by the Trustee (or Successor Trustee) for a period of not less than five (5) years after the Grantor's death, or until all pending legal actions initiated under this Instrument have been resolved, whichever is later.

ARTICLE VIII: SUCCESSOR TRUSTEES

Section 8.01 — Appointment of Successor Trustee. In the event the primary Trustee is unable or unwilling to serve, _____ is hereby appointed as Successor Trustee, with all powers and responsibilities of the primary Trustee.

Section 8.02 — Qualification of Successor Trustee. The Successor Trustee shall be a person of good moral character who shares the Grantor's commitment to constitutional principles and individual sovereignty. The Successor Trustee shall not be an employee or agent of any governmental entity, financial institution, or corporation that has been identified by the Grantor as a potential adversary to the Trust's interests.

ARTICLE IX: GOVERNING LAW AND JURISDICTION

Section 9.01 — Governing Law. This Trust shall be governed by the laws of the State of _____ and, to the extent applicable, by the original Constitution for the united states of America and the Bill of Rights.

Section 9.02 — Jurisdiction. Any dispute arising under this Trust shall be resolved in a court of competent jurisdiction operating under Article III of the Constitution. The Grantor expressly does not consent to the jurisdiction of any administrative tribunal, admiralty court, or other non-Article III forum.

ARTICLE X: MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

Section 10.01 — Severability. If any provision of this Instrument is found to be invalid or unenforceable, the remaining provisions shall continue in full force and effect.

Section 10.02 — Entire Agreement. This Instrument, together with the attached Schedules, constitutes the entire agreement of the parties with respect to the Trust and supersedes all prior agreements, understandings, and representations.

Section 10.03 — Amendment. This Trust may be amended only by a written instrument signed by the Grantor and delivered to the Trustee.
